

My Invention

This is my invention. It is called 'TNES the no earthquake set'. It solves the problem of earthquakes. It is used for protecting you from an earthquake. The flying pills will make you fly for 48 hours. If 48 hours are over, you will fall down slowly like a feather. The remote will save your furniture so if you're still alive, you do not have to buy food. The backpack looks like a normal backpack, but it has a button to activate a force field. If it's low on battery, it'll make a bunch of beeping sounds and any charger will work. Charge for 30 seconds and it will be full.

The remote is made of metal, plastic and wires. It is grey and black, and the buttons are colourful. It is the size of a hamster. You can press different buttons to place or remove the furniture to another dimension.

The pills are made of a lot of ingredients. Don't worry, they healthy but don't eat too much. They are also blueberry flavoured and are blue in colour. They are very small so you don't need water to swallow them.

The backpack is made of fabric, metal, plastic and nylon fabric. You can choose among black, red, pink, green, yellow, white and purple. There are three sizes: toddler, teen and adult.

That's all! If your country has earthquakes, go get one TNES set. It's $150 per set!

Seeing a doctor

This morning my dad took me to the clinic because I had a stomachache. I felt terrible.

Then one of the nurses came to me and asked politely, 'Did you eat anything that might cause a stomachache?' I replied, 'Last night I ate a whole tub of ice cream. Then I started to have a stomachache.' The nurse replied, 'You ate too much ice cream!'

After that, the doctor called Dad and I to his office. When we were in, the doctor asked, 'What's the matter?' I answered, 'I've got a stomachache.' Then the doctor told me to rest in bed for one day. Dad and I said thank you and left the room.

After we left the clinic, we were talking about what we would eat for lunch while two men were carrying a heavy box.

Dad accidentally bumped into one of the men who was carrying the heavy box. Then the box bruised Dad's toe and he shouted, 'Ouch!' He felt very painful.

In the end, it turned out that the two men were actually the staff of the clinic. The doctor was very sorry about that. He kindly treated Dad's wound for free.

Favourite transport of class 5C

Good morning, today I am going to talk about the survey report on the favourite transport in class 5C. 17 students took part in the survey.

In the survey, three of us like travelling by ferry because the view is good. Although the view is good, it makes some of us feel dizzy.

Two of us like travelling by minibus because it is cheap. Although travelling by minibus is cheap, it's dangerous.

Five of us like travelling by taxi because it's fast and comfortable. Although travelling by taxi is comfortable, it's expensive.

Four of us like travelling by bus because it's convenient. Although travelling by bus is convenient, it's slow.

One of us like travelling by tram because it's cheap. Although travelling by tram is cheap, it is hot.

Two of us like travelling by MTR because it's fast. Although travelling by MTR is fast, it's crowded.

From the survey report, it is found that the favourite transport of class 5C is the taxi.

Lost on Lantau

Last Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Chan went hiking on Lantau Island. They felt excited because it was their first time going to Lantau Island. The weather was windy. They bought some tuna fish and cheese sandwiches for lunch.

They got lost at the bottom of the hill and it was getting dark. They were worried. Mrs. Chan shouted, 'Help! Help! Is anyone here?' They couldn't find the way because it was too dark.

Luckily, they met a man with a map. Mrs. Chan asked him, 'How far is it to the nearest bus stop?' The man showed the map and replied, 'It's not far. It's one kilometre.' Mr. Chan asked him, 'How long does it take to travel from here to the nearest bus stop?' The man replied, 'It takes five minutes.' They said, 'Thank you very much.' And they ran away.

They ran quickly to the bus stop. Although they ran fast, the bus had left. They felt disappointed because they missed the bus. Mr. Chan had an idea. He took out his mobile phone.

At last, they called an Uber taxi to go home. Although travelling by taxi was expensive, it was fast. They went home quickly. They felt relieved. They said, 'What a bad day!'
